Brave Harimau douse Indonesian fire with penalty shootout victory

FOOTBALL passion burned in Indonesia long before the SEA Games final match between Malaysia and Indonesia even kicked off, with local fans setting fire to the ticketing booth at the Senayan Stadium when they failed to get tickets to the game.

A mad stampede also left two fans dead while several others fainted.

The brave Malaysian lads, however, snuffed out Indonesian hopes when they beat the hosts by the narrowest of margins, winning a shootout 4-3 after coming back from behind to force a 1-1 draw in regulation time.

At 3-3 in the shootout, the last Malaysian penalty shot was stopped by the Indonesian goalkeeper. Then, it bounced behind him and trickled into goal. Indonesian hearts sank. And the Harimau – along with all Malaysians – roared.

190 YEARS AGO A MAN BET ON HORSES AND CHANGED WATCHMAKING FOREVER.

In 1821, at a horse race in Paris, Nicolas Rieussec successfully tested his revolutionary invention that allowed time to be recorded to an accuracy of a fifth of a second. The chronograph was born. A tribute to a visionary man, the Montblanc Nicolas Rieussec Chronograph Anniversary Edition is centred on the essence of his invention, the rotating disc technique. Monopusher chronograph, MB R110 manual-winding manufacture movement. 18 K white-gold case. 30 min. and 60 sec. rotating disc counters. Limited edition of 90 pieces. Crafted in the Montblanc Manufacture in Le Locle, Switzerland. MONTBLANC. A STORY TO TELL.
